

MELANIN

With album sales in excess now of 700.000 copies MN8 can be seen as one of Europe's most groundbreaking R&B/Pop acts of the nineties. They've dominated the charts since the groups' first single release in 1995.

MN8 have scored 7 UK top twenty hits, three of which being top tens in all occupying 47 weeks. This includes the smash hit "I've Got A Little Something For You" which sold 3.5 million copies and reached #2 in the UK and Germany and #1 in France. This single was also featured on the platinum selling motion picture soundtrack "Bad Boys", a movie starring Will Smith and Martin Lawrence.

MN8 have also achieved silver and gold status in France, Australia, Holland, Sweden, New Zealand, Germany, Denmark, Norway, Switzerland, Japan, Finland, Singapore and Belgium, just to name a few.

Having finished up tours with Janet throughout Europe and the US with TLC, Xscape and Da Brat, MN8 felt it was to take a break from the band and explore other areas of the music industry. They've spend the last couple of years writing, producing and developing for other groups.

But despite their brief absence it was inevitable MN8 would rear their head in one form or another. Three members, instead of four, have since regrouped and are calling themselves MELANIN (after Melanin cells, which are located at the epidermis and determine the colour of your skin).
